

CONNECT VIRTUALLY AND EXPLORE OUR

EXECUTIVE MASTER OF PUBLIC ADMINISTRATION PROGRAM

Are you looking to advance your public sector career? Or, are you interested in changing career paths altogether?

Our online Executive Master of Public Administration (EMPA) program is for mid-career professionals like you, who are interested in both academic theory and a real-world understanding of the practical realities of policymaking and public administration. Learn from faculty members and former senior public servants, and graduate with the professional, analytical, technical, team-building, and intercultural skills required to lead in the public sector.

Join Dr. Martin Boucher, EMPA program lead and faculty lecturer, Johnson Shoyama Graduate School of Public Policy's University of Saskatchewan campus, and Emmy Neuls, JSGS Manager of Graduate Programs (Distance Delivery), to learn about our online program and how it can help set you on a path for success!

DID YOU KNOW: Flexibility is core to each module and course in the JSGS EMPA program. As a student, you will have conveniently organized online learning material with pre-recorded videos, readings, and instructions ready for when the time is right for you.
